Welcome to Royal London Ireland

We've a strong heritage in Ireland and have been protecting customers here for over 190 years.

Based in Dublin, we're a fully owned subsidiary of The Royal London Mutual Insurance Society Limited, the largest mutual life, pensions and investment company in the UK. Our parent company's mutuality, meaning it is customer and member owned with no shareholders, allows us to adopt a mutual mindset. This means we take a longer-term view and focus on providing best customer outcomes. Whoever you are and whatever your aims, we'll look to provide you with great long-term value, first class service and support at all times.

This guide tells you how Royal London Ireland's Funeral Payment Helping Hand feature works.

Funeral payment helping hand feature

The death of a loved one is always a traumatic time. And, in the midst of the grieving process, a funeral needs to be arranged and ultimately paid for.

Most life assurance claims are paid immediately after acceptance of the claim. But sometimes there is no remaining legal owner of the policy. When this happens, payment must wait until ownership is determined. This is done by means of a grant of probate. This process can take a long time to complete. In such cases, the probate process must be complete before we pay out the full claim.

Our Funeral Payment Helping Hand feature is simple. Royal London Ireland will pay for Funeral Director costs where we accept a death claim but payment is delayed due to probate.

We will pay an advance payment of the cover in place, up to the value of €10,000, to cover Funeral Director Costs. This payment can be made to the Funeral Director directly or to the Executor(s) of the estate. The Funeral Director costs will then be deducted from the lump sum the policy will provide, as soon as a grant of probate has been achieved.

How does it work?

Royal London Ireland is committed to acting in our customers' best interests and we are focused on paying claims quickly and efficiently.

Once we've confirmed that we will accept the claim, your family can receive an advance payment of up to €10,000. This is from the cover you had in place, and helps cover Funeral Director costs. Then, when probate has been granted, we can pay the full claim to the Executor(s). We pay them your sum assured (the amount of life cover you had) minus the amount paid towards the funeral.

The Payment

This advance payment is only available to cover costs from Funeral Directors, which can include:

- a coffin
- burial costs
- church fees
- cremation
- death notices
- plot
- services of Funeral Director, e.g. hearse/car

The payment will be made to the Funeral Director directly or to the Executor(s) of the estate. Brokers and Executor(s)/solicitors acting on behalf of the family will be notified of this payment once it has been made.

This feature is limited to death claims and only covers Funeral Director costs up to a maximum value of €10,000.

How to make a claim

We understand that when someone makes a claim, it is at a difficult time in their lives. So we believe it's important to make things as easy as we can and to treat every claim with care and compassion.

Our Funeral Payment Helping Hand feature aims to provide a better claims experience and to help avoid any unnecessary financial burden linked to a funeral.
